

Jack: Tom!
Tom: Look, I'd get rid of that letter if I were you. If Heathcliffe finds out you've been seeing his girlfriend...
Jack: (Interrupting) I am not seeing his girlfriend.
Tom: I'd keep your voice down if I was you and make another one of those wishes of yours

(JANE and MAGGIE walk over. JANE doesn't look very impressed)

Jane: Where have you been?
Maggie: Yeah, where have you been?
Jack: Well, I've been working haven't I?
Jane: Why didn't you call?
Maggie: You could have called.
Jane: (To MAGGIE) Do you mind?

(DUKE walks over to MAGGIE and TOM and signs them into the competition)

Jack: You know how busy I've been.
Jane: Too busy to pick up the phone?

(Before JACK can stop her, JANE takes the letter from his hand and reads it)

Jack: Jane, it isn't how it looks.
Jane: Now I know why you've been so 'busy'
Jack: Jane, listen....
Jane: It's no wonder you never could tell me that you loved me... is it?

(JANE screws up the letter and throws it at JACK. She runs off stage. JACK goes to follow but is stopped by DUKE)

Duke: (To Jack) You took your time didn't you?
Terry: (A la DJ) It's that time again, Saturday night at Disco Inferno... put on those flares and sort out your pairs. Grab your favourite girl and get down.
Maggie: Jack, where did Jane go?
Terry: (A la DJ) The Disco Fever at the club's contagious tonight... it's the Disco Inferno Dance Competition and a chance tonight of walking away with some great prizes.
Tom: Tonight's the night, baby. Are you ready?
Terry: (A la DJ) So, come on. Get ready to hit that floor and burn, baby, burn 'cos we all love to boogie. But Jack, be careful. You can't boogie if your legs are broken. Here's a reminder to keep those feet moving or else someone will pinch your shoes.

TRACK 20 GROOVE MEDLEY (Jack & Company)

Company Sunshine... moonlight... good times... boogie
Sunshine... moonlight... good times... boogie

